

punto org
General Editor Luigi Maria Sicca

63

VINCENZO BASILE

MARKETING PERFORMANCE
MEASUREMENT IN FMCG
SHARE OF WALLET IN RETAILING INDUSTRY

Foreword
Luigi Cantone

Editoriale Scientifica
Napoli

All rights reserved

© Copyright 2019 by Editoriale Scientifica s.r.l.
Via San Biagio dei Librai, 39 - 80138 Napoli
www.editorialescientifica.com info@editorialescientifica.com

ISBN 978-88-9391-615-8

Contents

xiii	Acknowledgements
xv	Foreword Luigi Cantone
xix	Introduction
1	1. INTRODUCTION TO THE RETAILING INDUSTRY AND FMCGs INNOVATIVE TRENDS
1	1.1 International retail at a glance
8	1.2 Global powers of retailing
11	1.3 Fast-moving consumer goods (FMCGs)
14	1.4 The convergence process in the food industry
21	1.5 Consumer behaviour dimensions in FMCGs
28	1.6 The determinants of purchasing process
30	1.7 The role of new technologies in the retailing industry
33	1.8 Business model innovation in the retailing industry
37	2. A MODEL PROPOSAL TO CLASSIFY THE OVERALL MARKETING METRICS
37	2.1 An overview of marketing metrics
39	2.2 The relevance of marketing metrics
45	2.3 Marketing Performance Measurement (MPM)
53	2.4 The cognitive gap in marketing metrics
57	2.5 The value generation process and co-creation metrics
61	2.6 Overall marketing metrics classification model
63	2.7 The role of customers in fostering new metrics

67	3. VALUE MEASUREMENT AND TRANSACTIONAL METRICS
67	3.1 Customer Lifetime Value (CLV) and Customer Equity (CE)
72	3.2 Market share and Potential market
75	3.3 Out of stock % and Shelf availability
77	3.4 Strength of channel relationship
80	3.5 Product category volume (PCV) and Category performance ratio
83	3.6 Transaction per customer (TPC) and Transaction per hour (TPH)
85	3.7 Average transaction size (Ta) and Average items per transaction (Savg)
87	3.8 Sales/Profit per employee (SPPE) and Inventory turnover
88	3.9 Sales per unit area and Sales per square foot (SPSF)
90	3.10 Markdown goods percentage (MGP)
91	3.11 Gross margin return on inventory investment (GMROII)
92	3.12 Retailer's margin percentage
94	3.13 Online KPIs
99	4. THE MEASUREMENT OF THE RELATIONSHIP QUALITY EXISTING BETWEEN THE CONSUMER AND RETAILER: PERCEPTIVE METRICS
99	4.1 Customer Satisfaction: Benchmark SM and Diagnostic SM ACSI
107	4.2 Net Promoter Score (NPS)
109	4.3 Customer Loyalty Index (CLI) and Customer Repurchase Intention (CRI)
111	4.4 Customer Commitment and Advocacy
113	4.5 Brand Attachment and Brand Attitude Strength
115	4.6 Customer Referral Value (CRV)
118	4.7 Customer Engagement and Relationship Equity

125	5. KNOWLEDGE MEASUREMENT AND INNOVATION METRICS
125	5.1 Customer Knowledge Relationship Management (CKRM)
125	5.2 Customer Value Management (CVM)
131	5.3 Measuring and managing innovation
136	5.4 Innovation framework
137	5.5 A guidelines for selecting innovation metrics
143	6. A PROPOSAL OF A TRANSACTIONAL KEY METRIC TO MANAGE THE CONSUMER-RETAILER BRAND RELATIONSHIP IN FMCGs: SHARE OF WALLET (SOW)
143	6.1 Theoretical background
145	6.2 SOW's determinants: share of purchase (SOP) and share of visit (SOV)
154	6.3 Segmentation of existing literature
156	6.4 Our research positioning
157	7. A CONFIRMATIVE ANALYSIS (STRUCTURAL EQUATION MODEL, SEM) TO ASSESS A MEASUREMENT SCALE TO DETERMINE THE IMPACT OF SOV AND SOP ON SOW
157	7.1 The study objective
158	7.2 Brief summary of Italian grocery retailing
163	7.3 Case studies overview: Superò-Auchan, Decò-Multicedi and Unes/U2
165	7.4 Methodology and research design
166	7.5 Proposing a conceptual model
173	7.6 Managerial implications and research limitations
175	7.7 A statistical application of the SOW model: PLS Path Modelling
175	7.7.1 Studies using PLS Path Modeling in Marketing Research
182	7.7.2 Why the PLS Path Modelling statistical model?
184	7.7.3 The measurement model
186	7.7.4 Goodness of fit measures

189 7.8 Share of wallet's measurement

195 Conclusion

197 References

231 Sitography

233 Appendix

235 punto org book series

*To my family,
with high esteem and continued gratitude*

Acknowledgements

This research was made possible thanks to the contributions of several people who, with their support, encouragement, and frequent confrontation, allowed the elaboration of this monograph.

This work represents the first output of a larger project, shared with Prof. Luigi Cantone, aimed at a theoretical and managerial development on the subject of Marketing Performance Measurement (MPM), with a goal of providing a dashboard tool for managers who deal with the operational and strategic management of companies operating in the grocery retailing industry.

First, I would like to thank Prof. Luigi Cantone, my mentor, for the numerous and valuable suggestions he provided during the writing of book, and for his final re-reading. Moreover, I am most grateful to him for honouring me by writing the Foreword of this book.

I would also like to express my deepest appreciation to Prof. Karin Reinhard for her guidance during my visiting Ph.D. exchange at the Baden-Wuerttemberg Cooperative State University, Ravensburg.

I am also grateful to Prof. Svend Hollensen at University of Southern Denmark and Prof. Matteo Montecchi at King's Business School who, as international members of the Doctoral Commission, allowed me to obtain the additional and special label of Ph.D. Doctor Europaeus.

My gratitude also goes to all the board members of the XXVIII° cycle of the Ph.D. in Business Science at the University of Naples Federico II and especially to the Ph.D. programme coordinator, Professor Paolo Stampacchia, for encouraging me in pursuing this research project.

In addition, I thank the following managers for their participation in the various interviews necessary for development of the three case studies contained in the monograph. They are the Doctors: Vittorio Amatucci and Angelo Merola (General Manager and Marketing Manager of Multicedi srl, Decò supermarkets); Antonio Cristiano and Antonio Grasso (General Manager and Marketing Manager of Superò supermarkets); Mario Gasbarrino and Roberto Comolli (President/CEO and Chief Procurement Officer, respectively, of Unes/U2 supermarkets).

A heartfelt thanks, moreover, to Prof. Luigi Maria Sicca, Chief Editor of the publishing house dedicated to management studies, for the constant encouragement and the important relationship with the publisher and his staff.

Thank you to the two anonymous referees who, through their reviews, allowed me to improve the exposure and organization of the book's contents.

Thank you also to my Marketing Laboratory colleagues: Prof. Paolo Calvosa, Drs., Nicola Cirillo, Dario Di Sarno, Teresa Marrone and Pierpaolo Testa who accompanied me in the writing of the book, creating the ideal conditions for the university research activity.

I also thank my sister, Giuseppina, who has always encouraged me to continue on my way, despite the many difficulties encountered along my path.

Last, an affectionate thanks to my parents Maddalena and Antonio; without their example of life nothing could have happened. A special thanks, furthermore, to my father for being the autor of painting on the cover of this book, that is the sundial, which in its simplicity is considered the most ancient and widespread tools to measure a precious resource such as the time.